

This is ridiculuos! Why stop progress?!? As an avid XM customer and daily, or should I say hourly, listener-live well enough alone! The local weather announcements and traffic updates help me make it through traffic on my way to work, and simply turning it to one station is a convenience rather than waiting for few and far between announcements on FM. Trying to ban and prevent future conveniences like these would be counterproductive to the technological innovations we have worked hard to discover. What's next?!?
